PROPOSAL P01

Mobile Clinics

The outer burrows have waited eleven years for a clinic. The Council offers them six converted buses and a promise to keep the engines running.

PROPOSAL P02

Transport Hubs

At Millbank, changing buses requires a long walk and considerable faith. A proper interchange is ready to build. So is the clinic extension.

PROPOSAL P03

Hospital Accountability

The hospital insists every complaint is investigated. The families meeting above the bakery would like to know by whom. School inspectors may soon have a new assignment.

PROPOSAL P04

Common Curriculum

At North Bellwether School, the atlas still shows the old border. The headteacher wants new books before another generation learns it incorrectly. The hospital has also submitted a list.

PROPOSAL P05

Community Care Routes

The new estates have show homes, sales offices, and nowhere to dress a wound. Reserve a few ground-floor flats for neighbourhood nurses.

+ Healthcare For

PROPOSAL P06

New Estate Outreach

Families keep arriving at the estate office with keys that fit nothing. A permanent housing adviser could help—if the community health team can spare the office and salary.

PROPOSAL P07

Universal Care Charter

Mrs Brindle brought her rejected claim to the Council and read it aloud. The proposed care guarantee has fifty signatures. The river restoration fund has the money.

PROPOSAL P08

Clean Air Relocation

Laundry on Cinder Lane comes in greyer than it went out. Residents want the municipal incinerator moved. The proposed hospital wing can wait, they say; their lungs cannot.

PROPOSAL P09

Emergency Recruitment

The night ward has one nurse, two kettles, and a vacancy notice faded almost white. The hospital wants permission to offer wages someone might accept.
